Need feedback on your work? Can't find local artists in your field? End that feeling of isolation by learning "How to Create and Moderate Your Own On-Line Critique Group". In this workshop, illustrator Giselle McMenamin will lead participants through this process. Topics to be discussed include: creating a mission for the group, creating an on-line showcase; setting up an on-line meeting blog; and creating guidelines that will ensure the success of your group. This workshop is for artists of all disciplines.

Giselle McMenamin is a painter and educator living in Rockland County. She has a degree in fine arts from Parsons School of Design and has taught art to students of all ages in a variety of venues including the Art and Design Studio of Rockland, the JCC of Rockland and (beginning this fall) Dominican College. Her passion for art and desire to receive genuine feedback on her work and give others the same in return has motivated her to form an online critique group using an array of readily available tools via the internet. In addition to keeping her skills sharp artistically by being part of a critique group, she has also managed to garner wonderful friendships along the way.
